

November Program Offerings

FCI November Programming

Are you getting tired of the daily grind? Want to wake up the part of your brain that longs for creativity and some fun? Then come join Samantha Quinn's SIG as she explores and discusses "The Dark (& Bright) Side of Human Communication". You can participate in her SIG in the following ways based on your preference:

- Watch the recorded video presentation (10 minutes) CLICK HERE
- Engage in asynchronous Q&A via the Fellow's Canvas course HERE
- Join the live discussion "Reflect & Respond" session: Wed., Nov. 18th via Zoom JOIN HERE (Note. Please be sure to watch the recording before the live session, as it will serve as the foundation for the discussion).

Social-functional approach to emotions

- Emotions serve particular functions in our lives
 - Essentially, they have a job to do
 - Jealousy and envy are emotions that serve a purpose

According to this approach, emotions are used to initiate & maintain relationships & establish social hierarchies

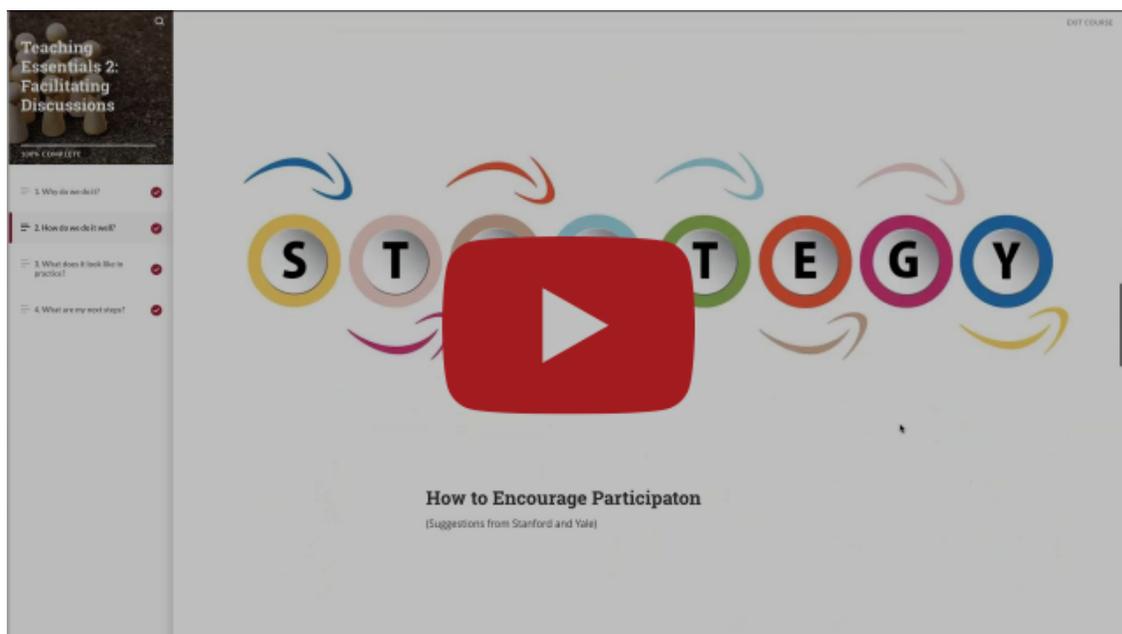

- To understand the social function of an emotion, it is crucial to determine the social goal the emotion serves

The Faculty Center for Innovation (FCI) is pleased to announce the launch of the new Teaching Essentials Program. These fully online, self-paced modules provide excellent information and practical examples from the field, for both novice and experienced instructors, with ideas to (re)invigorate teaching within your own class.

Participants will receive a certificate for each module completed, and faculty who complete all five modules will be awarded a Teaching Essentials digital badge. This badge can be shared via social media and included in the professional development section of their portfolio for their performance review. AND all faculty who earn a Teaching Essentials digital badge will have their name entered into a drawing.

All Teaching Essentials modules are hosted in Bridge (HERE) or may be found in FCI's Instructor Hub (i-Hub) in Canvas (self-enroll in i-Hub HERE). Module topics are listed below. For additional questions or comments related to the Teaching Essentials certification, please email innovate@park.edu.

- Module 1: Planning Class Sessions
- Module 2: Facilitating Discussions
- Module 3: Engaging & Motivating Students
- Module 4: Providing Effective Feedback
- Module 5: Using Student & Peer Feedback to Improve Teaching
